WHAT FISH IS IT?

This fish is often caught by recreational fishers but very seldom do you see a lot of it in the fish mongers shops.

Body robust, not greatly compressed. Mouth large, extending back to below the middle of the eye. Jaws with rows of small, pointed teeth. Eye large, its diameter about one fifth the length of the head. A single dorsal fin, the spines slender and weak. Body covered with moderate sized, strongly ctenoid scales which form a low sheath on the bases of the dorsal and anal fins

Colour greenish above silvery below, the young with a series of golden vertical bars on the upper half of the body, the bars reducing to spots, with age. Length to 41cm

Distribution: Western Australia, South Australia, Victoria, New South Wales, and Tasmania

The flesh is quite tasty.

What fish is it?

Did you get the May fish? It was a Red Snapper
